

Wednesday February 17 2010

2

THE  TIMES
arts | style | life

Buy me

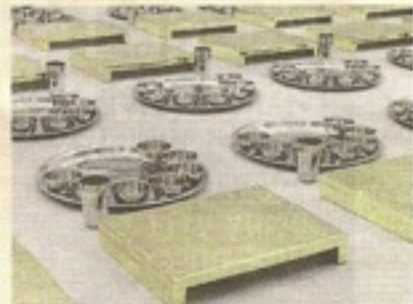

£280

This is one of the baskets woven by women of the tribes of north-western Botswana, using dyed, cream-coloured palm fibre. The maker of this basket is Edare Thimbonde, and it costs £280 in a show called Baskets and Bushman Art from Botswana. Until March 14. Rebecca Hossack Gallery, 2a Conway Street, London W1. 020-7436 4899; www.r-h-g.co.uk

£25,000

In an echo of the Rapunzel story, the French-Algerian artist Alice Anderson has filled the Riflemaker gallery with red hair, and with film, sculptures and photographs, to recreate childhood memories. This Doll's Mask (No. 5), made of silicon, glass eyes and leather ribbon, is £25,000. March 1 - April 24. Riflemaker, 79 Beak Street, Soho, W1. 020-7439 0600; www.riflemaker.org

£450,000

The renowned Indian artist Subodh Gupta's installation School comprises 45 brass stools paired with stainless steel thalis (Indian dishes). It costs €500,000 (£450,000) plus VAT. This detail shows how it fills the Red Room at Hauser & Wirth's gallery at 15 Old Bond Street, London W1. Feb 23 - March 27. 020-7287 2300; www.hauserwirth.com
Derwent May